

CONNECT. MAKE A DIFFERENCE.

Seven Things You Should Know about the Oregon Nonprofit and Community Involvement Landscape

Oregon's nonprofit community is alive and well, and thriving. As the information compiled by Oregon Involved will show you, citizens of Oregon understand the importance of nonprofits in their communities and see a need to support them.

1. Oregon is home to 23,490 nonprofit corporations

- 12,665 are public benefit corporations, working in the areas of social services, health care, education, the arts and others to improve the quality of life in their communities.
- 5,627 are mutual benefit corporations (e.g., homeowners associations and civic clubs).
- 5,198 are religious corporations (e.g., churches, synagogues and temples).

* This fact sheet focuses on the public benefit nonprofit organizations in Oregon.

2. Oregonians are getting involved with and being helped by nonprofit organizations

- 70% of Oregonians say they have or someone in their household has participated in or been helped by a nonprofit organization in the past two years.
- 75% of Oregonians have made a donation to a nonprofit organization in the past two years.
- 50% of Oregonians have volunteered their time.

3. Oregon's nonprofits are located in every region of the state

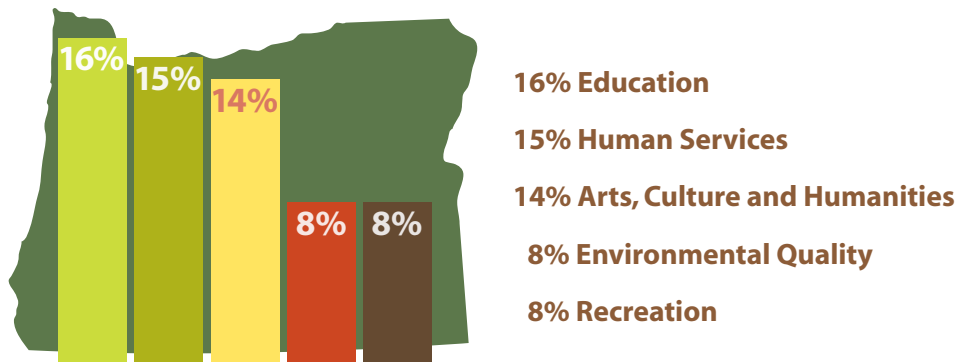

Nonprofits by Region in Oregon

In addition, there are 2,336 nonprofits providing services in Oregon with their main office out of state.

4. Oregon's nonprofit organizations provide a wide variety of services

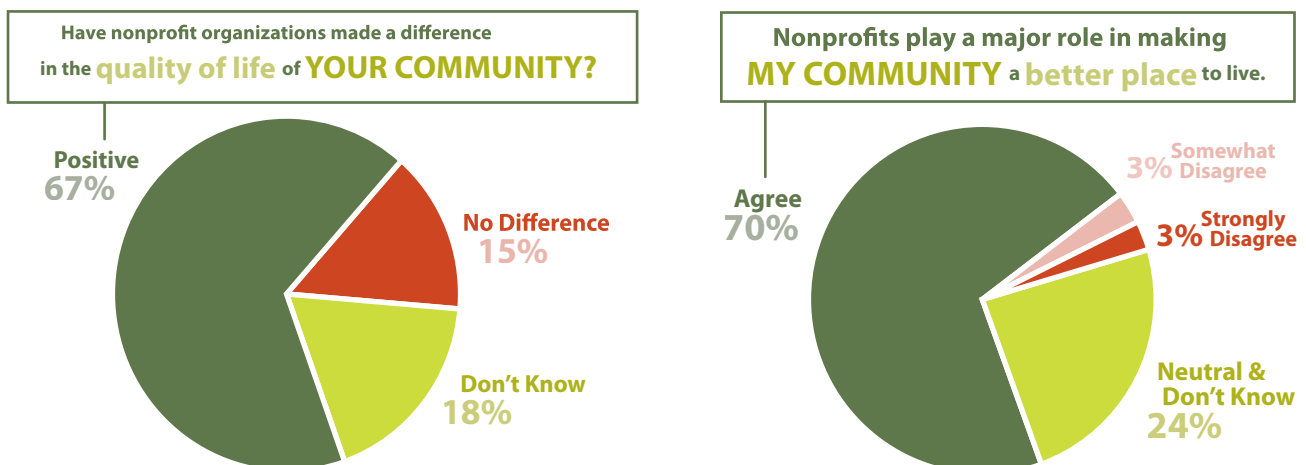

The bulk of Oregon's nonprofits work in the following areas:

5. Nonprofits make a significant contribution to Oregon's economic vitality

- 7,150 nonprofits employ approximately 141,000 Oregonians.
- Nonprofits add $4.6 billion to Oregon's economy through paid wages.
- Nonprofit wages comprise more than 10% of Oregon's private-sector payroll.
- 12% of nonprofit employers are in the health services arena and employ 50% of all nonprofit employees.

6. Oregonians believe nonprofits are making a difference in their communities

7. Oregonians see a greater need for nonprofits and community involvement in their communities

- 65% of Oregonians agree there is a greater need now for nonprofit organizations in their communities than five years ago.
- 81% of Oregonians think more people should volunteer.
- 61% think more people should donate more of their income over the coming decade.

Oregon Involved is an exciting resource and a public awareness campaign connecting the dots between volunteers, donors and nonprofits in Oregon. By providing innovative online tools, Oregon Involved makes it easy to get involved and make a difference.

Check out our website to learn more about sources for this information, and the nonprofit and community involvement landscape in your region of the state: